

no reason for adopting a law to compel people to go home from a supper club, inadvertently argued on the Mayor's side when he frankly said that out-of-town visitors who come here "like to run wild while they are here."

"I'm glad you dropped in," the Mayor said. "Go right on."

Blames Visitors to City.

It was the Mayor's opinion that out-of-town visitors give this city a bad name "and make it a cesspool."

"If a man is out at night why shouldn't he go home when he wants to?" asked Mr. Stone. "This is a free country. All he has to do is to ask for his check."
